

Liberty Mutual's new umbrella aims at large national risks

InsuranceTimes, April 1, 2003, Vol. XXIII, No. 6

Copyright, 2003 © M&S Communications, Inc., publisher of InsuranceTimes

A new Liberty Mutual commercial umbrella policy promises to meet the excess insurance needs of their large national clients. The product, which is intended for large companies, enters the market at a time when limited capacity has reduced the availability of excess, or lead, umbrella policies for such accounts.

Liberty Mutual's Lead Umbrella Policy provides up to $5 million in excess insurance protection, with additional limits available on selected classes. The product covers a broad range of industries, including manufacturing, service, retail, construction and transportation.

Liberty Mutual promises brokers a dedicated underwriting unit for this new policy and flexibility to use it independently or in combination with coverages from Liberty Mutual or other insurers. □